Instructions for Annotator B (100 items, in two parts)

Thank you for helping. Part 1 replaces the file sent earlier; please use only the new one.

What you need: Excel (laptop or desktop if you can; the Excel phone app also works).

Before you start

- Turn off AutoCorrect in Excel: File > Options > Proofing > AutoCorrect Options, and untick "Correct TWo INitial CApitals", "Capitalize first letter of sentences" and "Replace text as you type".
- On a phone or tablet, also turn off autocorrect and automatic capitals in your keyboard settings.

Part 1: 40 sentences, your own way (file annotator_B_part1.xlsx)

Each row has a Kannada sentence and its English translation. Write it yourself, from scratch:

- Your natural: the Kannada typed in English letters, the way you would type it on WhatsApp, word for word.
- Your Kanglish: how a young person in Bengaluru would write the same message on WhatsApp, with English words mixed in where that is natural. Keep the full meaning.

There is no single correct spelling: type it the way you really would. Do not look anything up. About 1.5 hours. When all 40 are done, save and send the file to Aarnav straight away. Part 2 comes after that.

Part 2: 60 checks (file annotator_B_part2.xlsx, sent later)

The same task as Annotator A. Each row has the Kannada sentence, the English, and two versions written by an AI model (Gemini). The 3 shaded EXAMPLE rows at the top show how. For each version:

1. In OK? choose fine if it is how people would type it on WhatsApp and it keeps the meaning.
2. Otherwise choose wrong and type your fix in fix (the whole sentence the way it should be). Leave fix empty when it is fine.

Rules

- No AI or translation tools, and no dictionaries.
- Do not discuss the items with anyone else working on this project, and do not look at anyone else's work.
- Use the Note column for anything odd.

Sending your work

- Always save as an Excel Workbook (.xlsx), never as CSV, and send the .xlsx on WhatsApp (as a Document).
